
who'd you like to see race?

Posted by Bigdog - 2007/12/10 13:11 interesting Q in this months TWO.

if you can pick 6 riders (that whas the Q to keith huwen and toby mooby anyway) - who'd you want to see race head to head?

well now.

i've really got no memory of the really early riders, but surely hailwood would need to be on the grid. and it would be a shame not to include ago. modern day, it'd be another shame not to include mr doohan and ofcourse the grid would not be complete without rossi.

then the pick is no easy task. kenny sr, rainey, lawson, spencer, schwants and as an out-sider, kocinski.

then you have the super-bike squad with main contenders foggy and bayliss.

cadalora? sito pons?

and like i said, i've got nooooo idea about the older racers like surtees, duke, ubbiali, redman, mang and why not ballington and perhaps newcombe?

aaaaaahhh. too difficult for me...

All the above riders and then make honda produce a perfect engine management system for a 500 two stroke and then duck tape Jeremy McWilliams on to it :D

love to seen the late jarno saarinen in the modern era on a factory 500!
just would loved to have seen what he would have been capable of in the modern day!
he sure didnt mess about in the early 70s,what a loss of probably the biggest talent,i would have thought the guy would have become a multiple world champion many times ala rossi etc,just apity he never got to realise the dream a little more!

You're probably right shuffler, but they were usually quite spectacular. Do you remember catalunia on the 250 when him and another rider touched on start finish straight. It pulled his front brake on and he went arse over breakfast time through the finish line. It was reckoned he crossed the line at 120mph on the seat of his leathers. That one was amazing.

I would love to watch Robert Holden race anybody on the roads again, robert would be on the Ducati. Him and John Hepburn were my first racing heroes.
