
Private Messages

Posted by admin - 2008/01/02 01:14

The new PaddockGossip.com has a new private messaging system. This is an interim system while we work on a fully integrated solution which we expect to release in time for the new season.

Only registered users have access to private messaging facilities.

You can access your private messages by clicking the 'Private Messages' link on the User Menu which appears on most pages when you log in. You can also access them by clicking the PM link below any user's name in the forum.

We were not able to migrate the existing private messages to the new interim system. However, access to the old forum is still available until the end of January 2008 by clicking this link. You should be able to collect your old messages by logging into the old forum.

Re:Private Messages

Posted by Hobby1 - 2008/01/22 23:33

hi admin , tried again to access my via the link but on the old site the inbox is showing empty, on the new site showing 3 messages and i still can,t open them ive been registered since last sept regards hobby1:(

Re:Private Messages

Posted by admin - 2008/01/23 04:47

Hi Hobby,

To be perfectly honest we are not sure why you are having such problems. We have tested the system and it seems to be OK. We have 1 more thing to try which may do the trick.

What we are doing though is working on a whole new PM system which we hope to have up some time next month. PM's prove very popular so we are aiming to provide the best framework available.

Thanks.

Re:Private Messages

Posted by Hobby1 - 2008/01/23 21:09

cheers admin for the reply ,i will just sit tight in hope

Re:Private Messages

Posted by Hobby1 - 2008/02/07 18:30

Hi admin still having no luck opening my i recieved a email today off one of the lads just to say my out going are being recieved . just thought i,d let you know

Re:Private Messages

Posted by Hobby1 - 2008/02/10 13:58

Admin at last i hope to have problem solved , recieved today and was able to read it cheers for all your help

=====

Re:Private Messages

Posted by admin - 2008/02/12 00:04

Glad you are sorted - any further problems let us know.

The new PM facility is on its way!

=====