Hi rracergrl,

Firstly, apologies for their disappearance. We have some good news and bad news.

Firstly, the bad news. You may have noticed that the site has been offline recently. This is due to the fact that we have moved our site to a different server. During this move we inevitably lost some data from the forum, approximately 2-3 topics. We are looking into recovering these posts but users can feel free to repost their posts. This is somewhat undesirable and we apologise for the inconvenience. We value your contributions highly and we understand that loss of data does not constitute a good service.

There is good news however. We are now using the latest server technology and this has allowed us to make further improvements to the site. You should notice the forum pages loading much more efficiently and we have ironed out many of the initial irregularities. This is also a long term fixture so you can be safe in the knowledge that your posts are on the board to stay!

You will notice further irregularities on the front pages of the site. We have received lots of feedback on site speed and these errors are a result of some ongoing improvements we are making. This should be cleared up before the weekend.

This weekend we will bring you up to date with feedback from our recent survey along with updates on other matters such as our new partnership with the Duke Road Race Rankings.

Thank you all for your support.
