im sure aly sealy can ride his own r1 jmf bike!
proddy bike and superbike,and maybe 600

poor martins only just been buried,give it a wee while!
i dont know if the jmf guys would put anyone else on the bikes this soon!"
i hope not

I read in one of the papers that the jmf team will all wear black armbands with #45 on them and Seeley will also carry the number somewhere on his bike. I also heard all the marshalls will wear the same black armbands with #45 on them.

The same article says Seeley will be the ONLY rider for the team at NW200. I'm glad as it would have been too early.

But, we all have to realise that jmf are a professional team and it takes alot of cash to run a team like that so I wouldn't be surprised if there was a bum on the seat for the TT. Seeley doesn't race there so I would say the team would like a rider for the TT. But at such a late stage who would they get to ride at the TT with all the competitive riders already signed up elsewhere?

Let's not speculate. It'll be a tough decision to field someone for the rest of the season nevermind the TT. Let's give them time to deal with their own affairs and just wait for news through the official channels. We'll be sure to bring to you here as soon as it is available.

Thanks.

I agree it far too early for this chat, with Martin (Finbar) just buried.

Need to give it some space.
