Yep, Archie's down as an entry (he does well there)

The ever young Denis Gallagher will be competing in Skerries for the 51st year - theirs one for the Guinness Book of Records (he won his class at Killalane last September!)

Looks like a quality line up for the week end. The prize money looks mighty good too :kiss:

Farquhar has not won at Skerries in ages. Is it four years :unsure: What are his chances of a hat trick or getting a McCallen four timer this weekend :unsure:

Noddy wrote:

I think Archie has had nine wins to his name at Skerries. A tenth win would be so sweet.

Farquhar clinches Skerries double

(taken from BBC Northern Ireland)

Ryan Farquhar won the Superbike and 600 races at the Skerries 100
Dungannon's Ryan Farquhar completed a Superbike and 600 double at Saturday's Skerries 100 road races near Dublin.

Farquhar took the Superbike honours ahead of runner-up Keith Amor from Scotland and Victor Gilmore.

Later in the day Farquhar won the 600cc race with William Dunlop in second place and Gary Johnson third.

Ballymoney rider Dunlop, however, took the chequered flag in the 250 race ahead of brother Michael who celebrated victory in the 125 event.

both riders seemed fine,although i'll not name them just in case,spectator didn't look too good but then i'm no medical expert. from what i could gather there was a coming together between the 2 bikes,1 of which caught fire and ended up hitting some metal fencing,i'm assuming the spectator was just the other side of the fencing. i wish him all the best for a speedy recovery.

I really missed Finn45 today,i wore my finnegan shirt as my little mark of remembrance(is that a word?) I doubt anyone noticed but there was loads of finnegan shirts today and everyone i seen,there was a little nod of recognition. i guess i wasn't the only one missing him today! Still can't believe he's gone but i'm sure he's having some craic with the rest of our fallen heroes. I'll be raising a bottle to him tonight.

Nice quote that, that Martin sent the sun down Jean!

Racing was fantastic, even in the support classes with a few hairy moments at Dublin corner. Both Dunlops did so well! We got a dry run down friday, watched some practices, went into Lusk, spent an hour or two there then headed back to the paddock to pitch our tents and thats when the heavens started to open! That rain kept me awake most of the night! I was a amazed when it started to dry up round 10am! And for it to rain right at the impromtu unfortunate end of the day. The grandstand gossip was riff - we had heard 2 riders were down, it was gary, it was keith, then word filtered through it was one of Barrys sponsors. I pray he will make a speedy recovery.

I didnt know what this year would be like, but you just had to look around the crowds and count the #45 baseball hats, shirts, fleeces to see that Martin was still with us! Even the vans in the paddock had little 45s on them!

to help you all here i will be brief.
as we now know the incident involved milton thom, a past sponsor of the gary dynes foundation, and to numerous riders.
milton has recieved serious burns, to his facial area, and burns on his body.
he is currently critical but stable in st james street hospital in dublin.
lets pray for a full recovery.
more news when appropriate.
